PRESENTER BIO: Trevor Summers is a Training Officer with Federal Student Aid. He conducts departmental training workshops on the topics of Fundamentals of Federal Student Aid Administration, provides regulatory updates, delivers numerous varied interest sessions at state, regional and national conferences, leads internal FSA teams in annual updating of training materials and web sites, and regularly assists schools in any way necessary. Trevor delivers training while emphasizing that financial aid administrators find the balance of helping our customers, the students, and parents, as much as possible, while staying within the parameters of the FSA programs.

Trevor has been working in Federal Student Aid since 1990. Prior to becoming a Training Officer, he worked with the Department's Dallas School Participation Team as an Institutional Eligibility Analyst and a Program Reviewer, acknowledging and approving school eligibility actions and conducting program reviews. He previously worked on the campus level in all positions of the financial aid office. He resides just south of Dallas, Texas with his wife and two sons. Trevor enjoys playing guitar, riding motorcycles, and studying history.
